At SAIF, we believe serving our customers is about more than just helping injured workers and policyholders through the claims process—we also want to help avoid injuries and risks in the first place.

The SAIF Learning Center is a way to be proactive about workplace safety and health, risk prevention, business management, and controlling costs.

Can this training resource develop your business and employees? We think so, and here's why.

It's accessible.

Our catalog of on-demand trainings can be accessed by employees anywhere, any time. Once a business has received SAIF Learning Center credentials, all employees can access our comprehensive collection of trainings on any computer with a Wi-Fi connection. It's intuitive and easy to use.

It's easier and less time-consuming than sending employees to classroom training.

It's designed for you.

The SAIF Learning Center has many courses for the needs of every business and industry. The training catalog is divided by topic with a wide range of topics, and there is a search function to help you find what you're looking for. We're adding new courses all the time and you can access our latest course catalog on saif.com/LearningCenter.

The Learning Center will transform the way you train your workforce. While most trainings are offered in a video format, they are interactive and designed to ensure the learner has mastered the content.

SAIF continues to add our own training content to the catalog.

It's a helpful management tool.

The Learning Center takes the stress out of employee training. Thanks to its automatic tracking functionality, the software makes it easy to maintain employee training records and expand the reach of required training.

This tool helps manage HR requirements and even allows employers to upload their own policies and procedures to ensure employees read and acknowledge them. The Learning Center even provides certificates to employees who have completed their training.

It's good for business.

Access to the SAIF Learning Center is generally* included in the cost of being a SAIF policyholder. We guarantee the same high-quality customer support you receive through our other services.

The Learning Center is another way to promote the health and safety of workers across Oregon—and that's always good for business.
